

Dr. Sureeporn Punpuing

Dr. Sureeporn Punpuing

Associate Professor,
Institute for Population and Social Research (IPSR),
Mahidol University, Thailand

Dr. Sureeporn Punpuing is an Associate Professor at the Institute for Population and Social Research (IPSR), Mahidol University, Thailand, with over 30 years of expertise in population and social research. She holds a Ph.D. in Resource Management and Environmental Sciences, a Master's degree in Demography from the Australian National University. Her research encompasses critical areas such as migration, health, aging, and the interactions between population and environmental change. Notably, Dr. Punpuing has led studies on population projections in Thailand, contributing essential insights to policy planning and development strategies. As a former director of IPSR (2008–2016), she championed research that informed national and regional policies. Beyond academia, she has served as a consultant for global organizations like the United Nations, WHO, and IOM. Currently, she continues her roles as a council member of the Asia Population Association and a director of the Mahidol Migration Center.